Notes:

Building Simulation 2017

IBPSA's next international conference, Building Simulation 2017, will be held in San Francisco on August 7-9. The conference will offer a track for oral presentations without associated papers. The subcommittee is putting together a panel discussion on making your own building simulation tools, for which we have seven presenters so far.

Joshua New has provided information on three topics that he is unable to carry forward and that the chair will forward to the Building Simulation presentations committee. Demian Kuhlen as a proposal on indoor agriculture in the works which he may or may not be able to move forward with. The official deadline for proposals is the 15th, but this submission website will remain open afterward.

Webinars

The subcommittee should put in an effort to hosting instructional webinars on building simulation tools. One way to do this is to webcast events that are already taking place through IBPSA's GoTo Meeting account. It may be possible to gauge interest and attract others to help in creating webinars through the Unmet Hours web site. The IBPSA Education Committee may also be able to provide hosting assistance.

Actions:

- Subcommittee members will develop and submit and proposals for presentations to Building Simulation 2017.
- Nathaniel Jones will forward Joshua New's topics to the program committee.
- Nathaniel Jones will submit a presentation proposal on making your own building simulation tools.
- Subcommittee members will suggest future events and webinars that the subcommittee may publicize or participate in.

Next meeting:

To be determined by poll.
